

Support vendor diversity at your agency with Bonfire

Public procurement teams like yours have the opportunity to promote the economic prosperity and social good of the communities you serve by levelling the playing field for all suppliers. New policies emerging from the Biden administration will make those efforts more important than ever, with greater emphasis on awarding RFPs to Disadvantaged Business Enterprises (DBEs).

Bonfire bidding software encourages greater supplier diversity, improved communication among teams, and transparency into purchases across your organization—ensuring all vendors receive equal opportunity throughout the procurement process.

How to support vendor diversity	How Bonfire helps
Encourage bidding participation and eliminate barriers for DBEs	Bidding portals that hide opportunities behind a paywall disproportionately exclude small and disadvantaged suppliers; that's why Bonfire is 100% free to use for all vendors. Bonfire's award-winning vendor experience makes it easy for suppliers to submit bids, and our on-call and email customer support ensure that your vendors get all the help they need.
Track and report vendor diversity data	You can't manage what you don't measure, which is why Bonfire makes it easy to collect and track any certification or qualification, such as Small Disadvantaged Business (SDB) certifications.
Get opportunities in front of more small and disadvantaged vendors	Bonfire actively recruits vendors and adds them to our central database—giving you access to over 250,000 vendors from across North America. Additionally, when you collect SDB certification data from your vendors, Bonfire enables you to manage a dynamic list of SDB-certified vendors that you can reach out to for any future opportunity.
Enable SDB to get involved as a subcontractor in large-scale projects that carry unique diversity representation requirements.	Bonfire enables SDB to get involved in more projects by enabling them to make their sub-contracting services known to both buyers and prime contractors, right inside Bonfire . Then Bonfire helps prime contractors get matched with the right subcontractors needed to satisfy vendor diversity and other requirements as part of projects.
